

Support for Educational Events Donations & Contributions

In line with our ongoing commitment to provide products and therapies that sustain and save patients' lives, Baxter is proud to support a wide variety of clinical and education activities assisting our customers and other community bodies.

This support usually takes the form of a donation or sponsoring a third party organised and run educational event for healthcare professionals.

Baxter is committed to the highest standards of ethics and compliance. It is also a member of the Medical Technology Association of Australia and Medical Technology Association of New Zealand. Accordingly, requests for sponsorship and donations are subject to a rigorous internal process within Baxter to ensure that all sponsorships and donations are compliant with Baxter policy.

This means that Baxter will require some time in order to review all requests. Your Baxter representative will inform you about the anticipated time involved. However, you can assist Baxter in completing its internal process in the most timely manner possible by assisting in the following ways:

- always provide as much advance notice as possible – “urgent” requests that leave very little time are very hard to get approved in time;
- provide your Baxter representative with as much detail as possible. For sponsorships, this means the prospectus or a letter requesting sponsorship and the agenda. For donations, this means a request letter setting out details of the reasons for the donation;
- respond to requests for additional information promptly; and
- do not issue an invoice to Baxter until your Baxter representative has confirmed that Baxter’s sponsorship or donation is approved.

Thank you for giving Baxter the opportunity to consider supporting you with your request. Your Baxter representative will let you know whether the request has been approved.
